Hey, Andrew! Teach Me Some Greek! teaches biblical Greek to preschoolers and older students (even adults enjoy it) using a combination of deductive, inductive, and interactive methodology presented in a workbook format. This easy-to-use workbook series requires no prior knowledge of Greek. Upon completing this series, the student will have an understanding of koine (biblical) Greek. This understanding will be demonstrated in reading comprehension and writing skills. In addition, the student will have the tools to pursue his or her own study in the Greek

New Testament and can combat incorrect theology based on faulty exegesis. An expanding Greek vocabulary extends the student's English vocabulary through an understanding of roots. Finally, the grammatical structure the student will learn will better prepare him or her to study other foreign languages. In the Level 4 workbook, Greek grammar is expanded to include articles, length of vowels, accents, first declension nouns, and word order. Level 4 is appropriate for those students who have completed Level 3. Does natural selection act primarily on individual organisms, on groups, on genes, or on whole species? Samir Okasha provides a comprehensive analysis of the debate in evolutionary biology over the levels of selection, focusing on conceptual, philosophical and foundational questions. A systematic framework is developed for thinking about natural selection acting at multiple levels of the biological hierarchy; the framework is then used to help resolve outstanding issues. Considerable attention is paid to the concept of causality as it relates to the levels of selection, in particular the idea that natural selection at one hierarchical level can have effects that 'filter' up or down to other levels. Unlike previous work in this area by philosophers of science, full account is taken of the recent biological literature on 'major evolutionary transitions' and the recent resurgence of interest in multi-level selection theory among biologists. Other biological topics discussed include Price's equation, kin and group selection, the gene's eye view, evolutionary game theory, outlaws and selfish genetic elements, species and clade selection, and the evolution of individuality. Philosophical topics discussed include reductionism and holism, causation and correlation, the nature of hierarchical organization, and realism and pluralism. Provides a theoretical base for family practice that explains familial dynamics and provides guidelines for effective intervention based on four basic levels of need: basic survival issues; a need for structure, limits, and safety; problem-focused issues; and family and personal growth issues.
